HONGKONG, JANUARY 9TH, 1875.

THERE are perhaps very few foreign residents in Hongkond who have not more than once weighed the advantages and disadvantages of life here as compared with life at home. there are unquestionably many ills to be ago smiled at the weakness of human nature which causes men to be always discontented with the places in which they are, and the conditions of life with which they happen to be surrounded. The man of business in the city envies the calm and quiet of the country: while those who have been brought up amid the pleasant acenes of rural life look wistfully towards the city, and think that happiness cap alone be found amidst its bustle and its gaiety. This circumstance is susceptible of the simple explanation than men, as a rule, remember pleasure longor than pain, and in looking back to the past see sunny memories only of all those troubles and annoyances that surround the happiest in their everyday life. Many give vent to this feeling in a sigh for the "good old times," but were they to recur again they would perhaps compare but unfavourably with the despised present. Thus when residents in the East cast their eyes homeward they picture to themselves only the delights of a residence in their native country. A comparison is drawn between their home of hope-for after all it is nothing more—and their chequered career in the East, and advantages which are actually within their grasp are consequently overlooked. The bad name, as a residence the beginning of September, clings to it still subsequent year has the sickness and mortrary, by the increase of good houses, offectual drainage, a better supply of water, and the growth of trees and vegetation in general, i foreign residence, and, with regular and careful living, has been said to be one of the however, many advantages, compared with position enables all of them, in coming in contact with each other, to acquire experience adjudication in bankruptcy took place. A WILD IMPULSIVE NATURE. Woman, not content with breaking bearte. sometimes breaks crockeny, farniture, windows, and commits such havon that there is no alternative but to shut her up in prison for a time in the hope that a few weeks of sechaion will render her a little less demonstrative in bur demeabour. When, however, even captivity cannot quench her spirit, and she continues with her gentle leving ways to smark every mortal thing she can lay hands on within the limited area of her cell, then, indeed, man is at his wits' and to know how to pacify her, and his mighty beart is howed with an ineffable sorrow. One of these "wild, impulsive natures," by name Alice Butler, was recently placed at the bar of the Central Criminal Court, charged with destroying property above the value of £5, belonging to the inhabitants of Middlesen. Miss Butler pleaded guilty to the charge, and the secount given of her conduct by the counse for the prosecution was most distressing. She bad, it seems, been repeatedly an immate of the House of Correction at Westminster for disorderly conduct and assaults, and on the last occasion of her confidement in that institution made a clean sweep of everything within ber reach. athe Public Treasury in France, there is none which has given such a constant and rapid revenue as the tar on tobacco. Introduced into the Budget under the Administration of Cardinal Richelieu in 1621, it was fired at 1f. 50c. the pound, Then, in 1632, the tax was raised to 7f., in 1664 to 10f. for Brazilian toraised to 7f., in 1664 to 10f. for Brazilian to-bacco and that of other foreign countries, and 4f. for tobacco from the American colonics. In FIRE to the extent of £10,000 on Buildings, or 1674 Louis XIV. appropriated its fabrication on Goods stored therein, at current rates, suband sale. After numerous viciesitudes, the jest to an immediate discount of Twenty per privilege of its sale was abolished in 1791 by cent the National Assembly, and the right of traffic was granted at the rate of 25f. per 100 pounds. 1y 790 Hongkong, 20th May, 1874.
In 1810, becoming aware of the important LIVERPOOL AND LONDON AND GLOBE resources which the monopoly of this plant would procure, the State appropriated the fabrication to a Regie, and this new organisation, inaugurated on July 1, 1811, has oxisted until the present time. According to official statistice, there is an annual consumption in France of 50,114,827 france worth of cigars. 7,767,107. france of which is for Havanush cigars, 49,443f. for Munillas and 42,298,276f, for French eigars, organettes representing therein the sum of 376,987f. The Departments in which the largest amount of tobacco is consumed are Puz-de-Calais, Nord, Bonohes-du-Rhône, and the Department of the Seine, which last slone consomes annually 41.200,000 france worth of tobacco. The immense extension taken by the consumption of tubacco may be gathered from the following figures:—In 1815 the sale of this article produced 54 million franca; in 1830, 67 millions; in 1840, 95 millions; in 1850, 122 millions; in 1860, 195 millions; and it now represents in the French Budget a sum of 287
